

A black and white photograph of an architectural model of a university campus. The model is constructed from light-colored material and is placed on a large, flat, light-colored stone slab. The model depicts a complex of buildings with various rectangular and irregular shapes, interconnected by a network of walkways or roads. A prominent feature is a large, curved building in the foreground. In the background, there are more rectangular buildings, some with small rectangular windows. A faint, double-lined octagonal frame is superimposed over the model, enclosing the text 'PATRIMONIO UC'. The background behind the stone slab is dark and textured, possibly a wall or a backdrop.
