New York, August 4, 1924

My dear Senor de Huidobro,

When I read some time ago of the publication of your interesting new book on England. "Finis Britanniae."

In talking of it to Mr. Kennedy, a literary agent of some note, he said if you had an English translation he would like to try to place it with a publisher here. He has arranged for the American editions of Blasco Ibanez & other European authors.

His address is -
Paul Kennedy,
West 33 Street
New York City.

I congratulate you upon your book, and hope good fortune will attend it and all your future writings.

I was sorry not to see you again before leaving Paris, and very sorry that we could not have the honor of naming you or your friend as the Bohilian delegate. But I could not do so without the permission of the man in Santiago, the head of a Liqua there, who declined all my suggestions and with his friends named those other men who would not fric ally act.

That gentleman has turned out to be a poor patriot as far as Ireland is concerned, for he accepted the idea of a Free State.

While in Paris I was gradually moving toward a nervous breakdown from three years of intense Irish campaigning.
And for the past two years I have been al-ely now growing strong again.

Yours cordially
Katherine Huskey
